

---

Subject: Doing "nothing" tactic

Posted by Anonymous on Thu, 10 Oct 2002 04:40:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Here's a tactic I have used some times when I am tired of doing the "hard work" myself.. Use a regular or preferably a stealth unit and find a location that gives you a good overview of the map or even inside the enemy base. From there, just stay hidden and tell everyone else on your team what's going on.. "Two APCs leaving GDI base now" "3 hotwires incoming left side" "Sniper top right, behind rock" "2 MRLs firing at airstrip" Can be extremely useful if you can type fast and give out detailed recon info to your team.

---