Blocking the harv is a good tactic simply because while you are attacking and destroying theirs, yours sits safely behind a poll or something, and you can survive on the 2cred/sec and destroying the enemy harv(in clan games, mesa is a good example) I have seen the harv blocked in the some of the bigger games and its seems to have the effect that c4kitty was describing of funneling in the stupid enemy tanks while you sit under agt/ob and pound em.
