Actually - you should let the harvie out sometimes -- because the unskilled enemy normally never fails to shoot at the harvy -which of course is not shooting back so - while they are doing that - you can use the distraction to push out...(in fact - i've seen some id's stop shooting enemy tanks - to hit the harvy -- wrong priority)but - this goes back to people not using long range weapons at range.a couple of MRLS or MA's lobbing shells in - will keep a constant barrage of shells (damage) raining in.... -- they can hit the harvy as they shell - 2 volleys will kill it.. - and you get splash damage.StoneRook out...
