quote:"Umm cough cough dont flame me but, If its our country shouldn't you learn our language? If we go to France we dont ecpect them to learn English for us. We learn French. Just my two cents. Besides, I mess up if I type too fast, so I'm going really slowly."??? I thought we were talking about internet language ??? So u mean that the internet is "your" (whoever u are) country??? I think it is neither american nor japanese nor russian etc. Ok, english is the language that a lot of peoplespeak (not as much as chinese/mandarin though   ) but ok we all try to get the communication going by learning english and writing it in places like this. So u should be a little generous concerning mistakes.But the point of this was ack complaining about the abreviated internet typing language - it was no "bad english", it was just the way most people write in message boards 2 save time (including me) - if it wouldn't be exaggerated, it is ok 2 me though.Some people seem 2 have the time 2 even run a spelling program over their messages - others don't because they have more valuable things to do - it's up to each individual imho.
