I think he has a good point! Snipers are to strong. Once your able tho shoot while moving you own. For example on field if there is a good sniper in the tunnels you will suffer the "pain of the thousand deaths" Its all about speed and the sniper is the fastest unit when it comes to killing cause he needs only 1 or 2 shots to eliminate every unit. So it does not matter wich unit you use he will kill you always faster cause no weapon deals out so much damage so fast as the ramjet.(Shotgun needs to be very close to deal damage and you dont get that close to a good sniper) And yes you can own the 08/15 snipers with even a pistol but you will never own an elite sniper who hits you with every shot while strafing/jumping no matter what infantry you use (except another Havoc/Sakura if your skill is good enough)They should have made it so that you are only able to shoot while standing still and watching through the scope. No sniper in real life can place headshots at 500 yards while strafing and jumping. As it is now the sniper is the best assault unit in the game for skilled players and that is not the role he should play in this game
