I have never been very good at sniping. What I am good at is sneaking up on focused snipers and dropping my C4 on their backs. LOL I have done this more often than you would think is possible. All too often, snipers stay in GREENLIGHT mode a minute to long...or should I say, 30 seconds too long. LOL One more observation: I dutifully recognize the necessity of snipers on my team. What I do not appreciate is that snipers only really help during specific cirstances, and I have found that many snipers are unwilling to change strategies when the time is right. To perch on a hill while tanks are running your base over is silly.
