The beauty of the SBH is that you don't need the C4. You have the luxury of running around finding the best spot to place the beacon (this is extremely easy on flying maps). On smaller games, or games with few defenders find a spot, place the beacon, and stand back. The good thing about engineers is that they concentrate on disarming the beacon. It takes only a couple of shots to kill an engi. So wait till the beacon goes off and place your C4 on an MCT for added points.
