Same here I'm more of a defensive player and confrontational when I see my bldgs taking damage by whomever. You've got to take care of business when it starts to heat up. I love those "the building needs repair messages" from those that are way out in front and have no clue that it's being done on my watch...OT: When the bldgs do need repair I don't hesitate to change my character to an engie and do what's right. I've seen Havocs or Sakuras or whomever just stand around and watch the bldg blow, instead of getting in there and taking care of business...That's one of the true tests of a team player....
