

---

Subject: Renegade vs. Real World

Posted by Anonymous on Mon, 24 Jun 2002 13:03:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Twas reading back through some of these posts and found a lot of bad examples being given. We have to remember that in any group of people, there will always be some fringe element that does not represent the group's ideals/ideas as a whole.ex. America does not supply the IRA and the KKK does not make policy, the neo-Nazis do not represent the mainstream views of Germany, the nutso terrorists do not represent the peaceful Muslims throughout the world, the Brits do not all have lousy teeth, and (in a poke at myself) the French are not ALL Socialist, backstabbing, b4stards (the folks around Normandy are actually quite friendly).Just be careful when you make accusations against a country and it's policies that you are not taking a small group and letting it's actions speak for the whole.

---