This was on a server where friendly fire is off, and I checked since I know the admin of the server. The same person who nuked our own buildings also shot me in the head once and killed me during the next game. I was a chem trooper with full life, and he was a regular rifle soldier. He shot me once, and I took 250 damage and died. Unbelievable, to be sure...By the way, since the spelling/grammar police are here, it's "mispelled" not "mispelt."[May 30, 2002: Message edited by: Deathgod]"Mispelled" is correct, I've had too much influence from AzWhooped. And you can nuke your own building with ff off, anyone can do that. It doesn't require cheating. Btw, did you check that the guy who you killed at the top of the screen (XXXXX killed XXXXX). Maybe it was an enemy sniper?
