Yeah, seems like the only thing some people care about is getting points! I don't really play for points. I just play for fun. Sometimes, playing for fun can really have its rewards. If all you focus on is POINTS POINTS POINTS POINTS POINTS, then you are more likely to die quicker. Me, I just focus on playing well. I shoot when necessary. I heal when necessary. I guard when necessary. In fact, sometimes I get high scores when I'm not even paying attention. Once I got the most points and it was not from fighting but from guarding those idiots who constantly bought vehicles and tried firing on enemy soldiers.
