I think the mammy makes really good choice for defense when it supports the AGT, it kills those pesky techs that try to blow the AGT with it's missiles. I find that mammoths are really good in a way, it could depend on distance, since the missiles do more then the cannons up close and the cannons have a faster rate of fire then the medium tank and such. There are really good ways to use the mammies, why don't you try to discover them before you find out.
