That was probably me saying sigh I remember this one time I was in a Gamespy game and these 2 snipers named The Hunter (more like Deathhawk: The Hunter or something) and www.Munkiman.com (something to that effect, as you can see, I have a hard time remembering names). These 2 end up being brothers, and I eventually got involved in a sniper war with them. At the end, we pretty much sniped each other the same amount of times, but Hunter was bragging the next game how he "beat my ass". So I nicely correct him and said it was pretty much a tie, and he starts insulting me and cussing. I ask why he's getting so worked up about a game, since I don't really get mad about anything unless i'm in a bad mood, and he says that the game is life . The thought "wierdo" immediately entered my mind, and I told him that he shouldn't confuse the game with reality, and he replies that the game is in reality. After a while of failing to get through to his thick skull, I end up beating him pretty much in the sniper war for that game (which he denies probally still to this day). But I try not to get mad and says that he's a decent sniper to myself. But a few games later, I parked my averagely damaged medium tank next to the area outside the GDI base in Under. Well, Hunter and his little friends were riding stealth tanks and started firing his stealth missles from across the tiberium field. Thinking to myself that he was a complete moron since I was way out of the stealth tank's range, to my suprise, the missles all hit my medium tank and destroyed it. After questioning that I don't think stealth missles go that far, Hunter admitted that he hacked the server or something like that. That being the last straw, I left the server. On another note, a few days later, I encountered his brother Munki (or Mushi, I forget) and he comes in bragging that his brother beat my ass in the sniper war. I asked him if his brother and his clan still cheats, and he starts going crazy saying that his brother beat my ass and they don't cheat. It felt kinda good kicking his ass that match
