Once I had a beat up LT tank.A guy ran to get in it as I was repairing it. I got straight back in, he went into the Hand of Nod and stood near the window. I stepped a few steps away and he jumped out and ran to it. He had $723. I mean whats the point....The next map city he was on the opposite team and there was continual open chat about him stealing team vehicles and not playing the game....................................
