

---

Subject: Snipers Vs. Aircraft Balancing

Posted by Anonymous on Sun, 21 Apr 2002 13:55:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

quote:Originally posted by swatcmndr:In real life you have to reload every 6 rounds with a tactical rifle. and with what havoc has (close to the 50 caliber) it is a reload every shot. I dont think i have seen to many 50 cal with a clip. Most are bolt action and only can fire 1 massive bullet at a time. if there were more specs on the guns i could tell you more but i can just relate it to what i know and what it looks like. The 50 cal though is an armour piercing round as well as a sniper rifle. they are used to rip lots of things to shreads especially helicopters and jeeps. Like he said, the SP Ramjet is a pretty realistic weapon, in it's use, it can take on light armor, choppers and infantry. Just like a .50 so I don't see the problem. MP Ramjet has a clip and that's is something I wouldn't mind seeing changed. But the damage it does should remain the same. Have you seen the bullet that goes into a .50 those things are scary. I had seen pics of the rifles, but when I saw the bullet, my jaw dropped to the floor. Wish I was an american.

---