The chances of you landing a 1/4 mile headshot with the pistol is low enough as it is. If he's stupid enough to disregard his armor/health going down, then hey maybe you can. Aside that, the distance you are away from them factors in too. I think it's their way of working in "real trajectory". If you shot and your bullet dropped (gravity), you wouldn't be able to hit anything. You'd realize your pistol is useless at any high distance. So just realize that it takes more than 3 headshots at distance
