Well this is strange to say the least. I've been having problems with my ISP connection for 2 days now. As I said earlier my line was experiencing a 14\% packet loss rate - perfect to get bumped from the servers, and just a pain in the rear for everything else. Maintenance is coming this morning to fix the problem. Now my ISP seems to working perfectly. What's up with that? I'm still going to have the guy trouble shoot my set-up just to be sure....
