But do you really think that a hotwire can stand there repairing a load of mines without being noticed? Standing at the back of the Oby you are about as vunerable as you can get. No, no, you need to quickly get in there. I've done this a few times and it is amazing that people barely ever come to get you(even though they can see your rockets/big blue laser thing across the base). Normally it seems that GDI lose on city(a lot of times when I go in the power is already down and Nod forces are knocking at the door)
