I guess your right, there has been way to much input on this harvester tactic topic, there are more pressing issues to discuss like base defenses, attack strategies etc. Although harvy drivers can be reckless and irritating at times, so this is a good area to release some off the frustrations we all have. Many a time I have been pushed by a harvester into the line of fire, especially in hourglass, beside the AGT, this happens way to often and most times without an apology. If anyone else has anything that pees them off about their driving habits or other, I think it's time we air the dirty laundry here and now!
