
Subject: When it gets quiet -- your in trouble....

Posted by Anonymous on Wed, 03 Apr 2002 00:12:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Was playing hourglass yesterday - the teams were rocking -- punch - counter punch.at around 15 minutes or so in - GDI (My team) organize a rush - two mamies to go left and two mlrs to go to the right - engie support - etc...me and another dude stayed back for base defense. He was a tech and i had the PIC.mines were laid and we just relaxed.Started to hear about the battle on the chat and it seemed to be going well -- but there was only one call on the obi being attacked. curious i thought....but then i noticed that my team mates seemed to be getting creamed....then it got really quiet -- no one was saying thing. - spooky -- i type in a WTF? and just as i hit the enter key - five flame tanks crested over the top --- I was in shock - no one said a thing and here come the frigging FT's ----i sent a enemy sighted - and commence to atack --- the tech was repairing the agt -- but then a Nod buggy rip over and cut me half.needless to say - we lost.so the moral of this story --- if you see something -- please tell your team so we can better protect the base..... or lay down and die..... [April 02, 2002: Message edited by: StoneRook]
