I have noticed something and it occurred to me so thought I would bring it here. When your Stealth BH you place a beacon then back away to defend it when a hotwire or engy shows up to disarm it right? Well when you see the hotwire or engy coming and they suddenly stop for a second and then continue on to disarm it they are typing the location. Shoot them quick when they are stopped. Because help isn't far behind. I have found 9 times out of ten they will stop typing to move out of the way or fire back and you might have a chance. but if you don't then by the time you do start firing a patch or mobius shows up to end your woes.
