

---

Subject: Sore Losers

Posted by Anonymous on Mon, 18 Mar 2002 21:06:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I was playing a game today that the host had set up with everyone starting with 1300 credits. I was on a team by myself so far, since it just started, and it was like 3 on 1. I just bought a flame tank and rolled on over to his base in "Field" and proceeded to toast away his AGT. I took a few hits, but when I got right up on it and was taking no damage, I was fine. I had it almost gone, when they finally sent in a Hotwire to repair it. Then they started to repair it faster than I could damage it. So, I just turned my attention to the nearby Power Plant, and proceeded to toast it to the ground. GDI's infantry was all over at my base, trying to do the same thing, but I had the lead on them pretty good so far. When they realized their repair efforts were futile, the game host just decided to tuck his tail and shut down the game. Can you believe that??? Such sore losers!!! 3 people couldn't even stop little old noob me!!! Tell me what you all think...

---