I have no shame, so I'll go ahead and post an embarrassing moment. I had just bought a nice shiny flame tank and hopped in. An engineer got in too, and I started heading towards the GDI base, driving over the end of the airstrip in the process. Sure enough, a cargo plane crashed right into my tank and killed it. The entire ride lasted about 3 seconds. I think the guy riding with me was in shock at what had just happened, because he just stood there looking at me.On a side note, I think the airstrip has killed me more times than other players have. One day I'll learn not to take shortcuts across it.