roflmao.. I get incredibly frustrated that way too. 5 minutes to go, 1k points behind, and we have a bunch of tanks running all over the place effectively doing nothing. Would it be so hard to rush? Do these people WANT to lose ladder points? shakes his head in disgust Unless there are at least two other people on my team with a rank under 400 I don't bother staying in the game anymore. Often though, if your teammates aren't being terribly helpful, it is more effective to pull back for repairs instead of rushing in alone and wasting a vehicle + time... but on the other hand, I have on several occasions managed to take out one or more buildings by myself when backup didn't follow.
