If you can't hit the tank, hit the pad, and I'm sure that once the pad's down, the animated parts will recede back down stop moving, hence leaving any vehicles on it with just that low rim, scarcely much of a shield.And I'm sure it can fit a mammoth, Westwood would have designed it with that in mind...How easy is it to destroy that pad when you're under fire from the enemy team and the pad is getting constantly repaired?You must have missed that part.
