CrimsonBut it's the attitudes like these that make me want to pull all of my financial support. I surely have better things to spend my money on. I think it's just that the majority of people don't realise the sheer amount of money/effort you have put into keeping this community up and running.

It really is appreciated, even if many people don't show it. Now that i understand how much it is costing you, I plan to donate at least $20 every month to help you out with the hosting bills.

Anything i can do to help, i'll do.
