CrimsonI would never want the moderators on my servers to take time out of playing to test one person.

Then what are the "moderators" for then?

Quote:I have absolutely no remorse, and I'm sure Crimson and all the individuals that were involved with making Renguard have no remorse either about loosing, say: 10,000 cheaters to ensure 50,000+ players can play a FUN GAME, because that's what's it's all about!!!!

Are you implying that one in five non-renguard users cheat???!?

I believe that there are, maybe one in 100 users who cheat, and of those cheaters, many of the cheats "blur the line" between cheating and not cheating, ie. clear scope skins.

Quote:Offering someone to check your computer proves nothing, cheats can be stored on CD-ROM or DVD

If a cheat is on a CD/DVD, then it is not being used ingame, right?

And even if it was, then when they are playing renegade (as me), then it would be pretty apparent that they could try anything that I could do.

Maybe it's because I live in a different part of the world (GMT+10), but whenever I am on WOL, NO renguard servers are populated.

I have no remorse about cheaters finding nowhere to play. That suits me fine. What I do have remorse about is that many people who do not have renguard will stop playing, as, like me, there are no populated servers that run it when they play.
