SEALIf I were to go to school and start talking about how some kids were ripping off "my favorite video game company", I would just get odd looks.

That's because it's in a different crowd, but if you were to go to your LAN club and say that you're mad about them ripping off your favorite game company, you won't get odd looks. It's basically the same as me going to a club and talking about how this guy, Aircraftkiller is a Grammar Nazi. I, of course, am gonna get weird looks, but if I were to take it here, I may be flamed, but people won't look at me like I'm crazy. Like Steppo said, we're all ears when you decide to make valid points.
