KIRBY098Your logic comparisons are irrelevant and totally out of context.

As for the examples I posted, they clearly show a pattern of relationship between the two, thus an agenda. It's irrelevant that he plays games with him. I have played Renegade with Ack in the past.

It's that he was INVITED to play. That speaks of exactly the very relationship he asked me to prove existed as "unhealthy". In the context of REBORN bashing, I would say that is VERY relevant.

One last item:

I don't detest everything Ack. I detest the aloof, and self righteous nature that would tear down any other modification in this community. Name one that he supports, or has posted positive comments on.

I actually like the Renalert product. But there's more to Renalert than just Ack, and he needs to remember that one person isn't a whole team, and Renardin, and Angel of Dawn aren't REBORN.

Wow, a relationship. Steppo bashes Reborns incompetance, causing Aircraftkiller to talke a liking to him. Yup that definately shows an unhealthy relationship to RenAlert. The fact alone that it was Aircraftkiller who invited Steppo, and not the other way around would show evidence that Steppo is not a"fan-boy".

As for the completely off-topic idea that Aircraftkiller doesn't have anything good to say about other modifications, I have no proof to show contrary to that, nor am I going to attempt to find anything as it has absolutely nothing to do with the discussion at hand. Your right though, one preson doesn't make up a team (though that should also be explained in the Reborn forum), however one person can and does affect the public image of the entire team. If someone shuts down a bet ateam because of "excessive negative feedback" it doesn't matter who else is on the team, people are going to notice and relate that experiance to the entire team rather than one person.
