

---

Subject: Oh, I don't think I no longer got none video card blues...

Posted by NHJ BV on Mon, 19 Jul 2004 19:19:45 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

SuperFlyingEngiOne last thing - my dad thinks that a 1.6GHz processor would place a bottleneck on a Radeon 9700 Pro or some other fast card because it can't send enough data fast enough to make the card useful. Will there be a certain point where a 1.6GHz processor just won't get enough data to the video card to make it useful? Should I be thinking about a 9500 instead, to save some money, but not really lose any performance?

I **think** (meaning don't know that a 9700 is worth it over the 9500 in terms of performance gains. How much RAM do you have?

---