
Subject: A*C*K?

Posted by KIRBY098 on Fri, 23 Jul 2004 19:10:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

No, you aren't incorrect in that belief.

A manager of any type irregardless of what situation is supposed to be impartial. That's why BHS has a disclaimer stating that only the three managers are to be considered as the absolute authority in BHS communications. They have members that can't behave themselves and attack each other and other mods on the very forums they are supposed to support. I particularly like ack stating JW is full of it, and SK's nice little "you can't trust JW" blurb in his signature.

And then there's the whole REBORN thing...

And we're the children?

They are supposed to be impartial and communicate to all members the community impartially. So, you see, you aren't incorrect in that assumption.

Blazer is a very good example of impartiality
