OK, I am in a position to know so much more than you about anything involving Terrorism. You don't know anything except what you read.

Your points are inane and self serving. You try to argue but instead look like an ass. My bit of intellectual honesty is on the money with you.

Trying to refute what I said makes you look desperate and combative. I am in a position to know and be able to prove everything I said while you on the other hand offer glib statements in rebuttal (sp?).

Number one what do you know of the history of the region? Your assinine statement that Bush told them to rise up was sheer lunacy. After that I did not bother to continue reading as you lack any credibility after that one idiotic point.

NEWSFLASH: Saddam's trouble with the Kurds predates Bush Sr's war. Did you forget the US backed him against Iraq? Even while our country was brokering an arms for hostages deal with Iran that violated so many laws that your children will be feeling its repercussions.

So what is your reason for that? Go look it up on the web somewhere and copy and paste it.

YOU are the type of person who propagates myths, urban legends, half truths, and outright fallacies because you lack the moral courage and intellectual honesty to question what you see.

The truth is that we are where we are because of outrageous intelligence failures, shameful foreign diplomacies debacles, outright bad policy, shameful treatment of our allies, lack of respect for other cultures but this is my country and I love it. I serve it to this day by helping to defend it. I work for the Office of Homeland Security (the very name makes me sick) and I fight the war on terror every day.

What do you do? Sit behind a computer and pat yourself in the back for not having the necessary fortitude to ask why? If you believe your drivel so much go serve in Iraq. We definitely need more cannon fodder.

As far as your crack about Java. I have known him for over 2 years. HE at least admits when he is in error and is willing to look at things a new way. He may look down at you but this is only because YOU have not earned his respect and you never will this way.
