
Subject: TShirts!

Posted by MrBob on Mon, 02 Aug 2004 17:50:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sigh Humour is not appreciated...

spoonyratl can understand saying "Reborn Sucks", but to produce... or buy... a t-shirt purely to convey that message is kinda sad

Creed3020Wow, what disrespect.....

MadtoneThis has gone way too far, you people should just take a step back and look at yourselves, take a look at how immature and petty this is...all you guys are behaving is just lame.

PantherI couldn't say I didn't expect something like this, but it is still sad to see you people act like such idiots...

What did I write in the first post?

MrBobNote: This is meant to be taken lightly. This does not reflect the opinions of n00bstories, Blackhand Studios, or the Renegade forums.

Very interesting, let's read it again:

MrBobNote: This is meant to be taken lightly. This does not reflect the opinions of n00bstories, Blackhand Studios, or the Renegade forums.

Again:

MrBobNote: This is meant to be taken lightly. This does not reflect the opinions of n00bstories, Blackhand Studios, or the Renegade forums.

And again:

MrBobNote: This is meant to be taken lightly. This does not reflect the opinions of n00bstories, Blackhand Studios, or the Renegade forums.

This is meant to be humorous. I haven't even touched Renegade or any of the mods for months. This was NOT meant to be serious. Do I have to write a legal disclaimer to explain that to you?

The reasons I didn't use the Reborn logo are:

- 1) The logo is probably copyrighted.
- 2) I wanted a simple logo.
- 3) I didn't want to cause an uproar.

I hope that answers all your questions and concerns. I was going to make a "Renalert Sucks" shirt also. However, it wouldn't be as humourous, as nobody says "Renalert Sucks." Also, when humour is repeated in vain, it becomes stale, dead, and boring. Many mainstream comics/cartoons are good examples of humour pushed past it's prime.

If you still want the original "Reborn Sucks" tshirt, hurry up and order some now. I'm going to replace the original with better shirts that have bigger text, and a little more humour.
