Subject: How Bush will steal the 2004 Election...
Posted by warranto on Thu, 05 Aug 2004 01:50:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nodbugger7. Vigilante justice is not illegal. It all depends on how you go about it. If you defend yourself that is vigilante Justice. If you stop a robbery that is vigilante justice. If you stop somebody like Saddam from doing the things he is doing you re not doing anything illegal. People who stop criminals are always hailed as hero's. For some reason it isn't working now. Because for some strange reason people think Bush is worse than Saddam and Hitler.

vig·i·lan·te   P (vj-lnt)
n.
One who takes or advocates the taking of law enforcement into one's own hands.

Your right, in most cases it's not illegal. However, if you break a law while performing such acts, then it is illegal, regardless of intent.

Example 1: A civillain tripping a theif while he tries to get away with stolen goods. Not illegal (unless the theif decides to sue for assult. Ain't America great?)

Example 2: A civillian shooting a thief as he tries to get away with stolen goods. Very much illegal as a crime was commited.

Example 3: US invading Iraq to save innocent civillains from a corrupt government (as you put it). Illegal as it goes against the UN charter, REGARDLESS of the inactivity taken by the UN. You keep saying America was forgiven after evading Iraq. Well guess what? It could not have been forgiven if it WAS NOT WRONG (in this case ILLEGAL) in the first place.