

---

Subject: And people want to vote for this guy?

Posted by SuperFlyingEngi on Fri, 06 Aug 2004 01:10:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

We've lost over 900 U.S. Soldiers in Iraq. That's not bloodless. It's not close to bloodless. In World War II, those casualties were terrible, but they had to occur to end the Nazi scourge over Europe. Iraq isn't really a scourge over anything, since they knew we would come kick their ass again if they invaded another country. It's not killing their army that hurts our guys, its occupying their cities and fighting guerilla warriors.

NodbuggerCoffins have never been allowed to be photographed.

Completely and utterly wrong.

NodbuggerHow has he made it seem like a bloodless war?

By not allowing coffins to be photographed, among other things.

---