Yes, I was about to suggest that. The animation could simply be made longer too, but what can you actually do? (rhyme) Open it up and put some tools inside?

Oh and the thought of opening the box for attack was quite funny. The character would fling the thing in front of him whilst still holding it, and it would open up and attack with the top end, some tools would fly out and cut some shit to pieces, then the box would automatically close and retract. Like a sort of "go go gadget medic box"
