I wasn't joining any debate, I merely mentioned the ridiculousness of comparison between crimes on opposite ends of the spectrum in the first sentence of my post. The entire post was just defining my stance on piracy, you chose to quote and begin arguing with me on the first paragraph and wrote a much longer and much less comprehensible retort to it. I never called you any names, never insulted you, despite 3 whole posts by you calling me either a moron or an idiot. It was a very silly argument in the first place, but you were still unable to hold onto your original stance. You were being very childish, and you're just not worth talking to.

This is the last time I will respond to any of your posts jball, grow up.
