I won't debate that, but you know how girls are. They like attention.

Seriously though, Vixen wanted to be known in the community...so? If we actually thought Vixen was an idiot for posting this, wouldn't we have said something earlier than this in the thread? There's nothing wrong to an introduction thread. While they may not be desired, they're still not frowned upon, in my opinion. All you had to say was welcome and then ignore this thread...but did you? No. It's your own fault for being bored by this. You don't have to read it. Also, how the fuck would you know how we feel about it? I'm not bored to tears by it, and I'm guessing that most aren't.
