
Subject: mhmm..

Posted by cheesesoda on Mon, 30 Aug 2004 21:17:17 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Oh boo fucking hoo. It's a game. It's the internet. He's the one who needs to grow the fuck up. All I read was "cry I can't get the praise that I think I deserve so I'm gonna leave. sniff Nothing good is coming out of my efforts, so I no longer feel interested in participating in the game. The big bad online people hurt my feelings, so now I'm gonna go cry in my own little corner."

He lost ALL of my sympathy when he said this, "I'm tired of working hard and getting a "good job" from a few people, no more, no less." That quote proves to me that he did it all for the praise. That's not how you go about doing things. In real life you do things for 2 reasons: 1. It's absolutely necessary to your health (work, sleep, breathing, etc...) 2. Because you enjoy it. You don't do stuff to get praise, if you do then you're a self-centered prick.
