my grandparents live in Lake Wells, and they packed up all there valuables in their camper, and headed north for a US tour of family members. Their entire city is pretty much wasted, there house in particular had the roof blow to pieces, and all the rain just laid waste to the interior of the house. Pretty much an entire renovation will have to be done to save the house.

But, they should be out here in cali in a few days, and i can get a better grip on what happened there. Sink Hole City = bad idea for a city (lake wells is a HUGE sink hole, and there are sink holes throughout that area, guess what happened, more)
