We tested 1.03 on over 120 systems before its release. We had absolutely zero reports of lockups. We are more than willing to admit that there's plenty of work to do and improvements that can be made, and we know there are problems with some users on Win2k. However, it's highly unlikely that ALL your friends have the exact same problem that no one else is having.

Complete lockups of mouse and keyboard and generally matters of overheating. Common problem in Athlon processors with inadequate cooling. I'd look elsewhere for the solution to your problem. I got hard lockups due to overheating while I played Renegade long before RenGuard ever came out.
