Did Kerry Vote "No" on Body Armor for Troops?

"Yes, along with $87 billion worth of other things. But Bush didn't send enough in the first place."

"40,000 US troops were sent to Iraq without the best-grade body armor. Frontline troops had the new vests, containing ceramic plates that can stop assault-rifle bullets, while others had only older designs that offered protection mainly against shrapnel and lower-velocity projectiles."

So your both right... either way its still messed up that kerry voted against something and yet uses it against bush in a debate...

You should send them more equipment but I don't want to give you the money to do it. :rolleyes:
