Looks like ragnarok may be coming sooner than people thought.

People say that the end of the world might come in 2005, according to psychics and other stuff. With the eruption of Mount St. Helens, the volcano in Mexico near and the recent earthquakes in the Philippines it's looking like something is happening in the planet. What is your take on the recent events?

Quote:2005 will be the start of a new cycle, a tribulation period for the United States, said Morton. Something will occur in the fall of 2004 that will serve as a warning for the coming dire events, he added. He sees a major quake at Yellowstone in mid-2006, which will then trigger geologic activity at Mount Rainier in the Seattle area.
