
Subject: Kerry is anti-gun.

Posted by DarkDemin on Sat, 09 Oct 2004 02:41:08 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I am just preparing everyone for the worst. John Kerry wants to turn over gun registration in the United States to the U.N. and give them control over our guns. The U.N. will most likely attempt to disarm all the U.S. citizens. Most of you know that Americans feel very strongly over their right to bear arms. When the U.N. begins attempting to disarm Americans this will most likely result in a massive rebellion against the government and U.N.

I personally will join the rebels and begin to fight the government. It is my right to own a gun. A right that all Americans have had for over 250 years. I don't see how changing it now will result in any good or change. Criminals will get guns now matter what, and after the disarming that will most likely never happen peacefully, the normal American will have no protection from criminals and crime will likely rise.

Quote:

NRA And Brady Campaign Agree On One Thing: John Kerry Is Anti-Gun

Friday, October 08, 2004

On October 1, in a true testament to his anti-gun record, Senator John F. Kerry (D-Mass.) earned an endorsement from the Brady Campaign to Prevent Gun Violence (formerly Handgun Control, Inc.). For once, the Brady Campaign and NRA are in total agreement--John Kerry is the most anti-gun presidential nominee in history!

"If there was any doubt about John Kerry`s true position on the Second Amendment, his endorsement from the Brady Campaign should make it clear," said NRA-ILA Executive Director Chris W. Cox. "John Kerry stands with other gun banners like Dianne Feinstein, Ted Kennedy, and Chuck Schumer--each one commended by the Brady Campaign for their anti-gun records.

"It`s shameless and dishonest to spend your entire career voting against gun owners, then try to repackage yourself for a presidential bid," added Cox. "A true hunter and sportsman would never seek and accept the endorsement of groups who advocate banning guns, banning ammunition, banning hunting, and licensing and registering law-abiding gun owners."

The following are just a few of Kerry`s votes against America`s sportsmen and gun owners:

* Kerry voted to ban most center-fire rifle ammunition, including many common rounds used by hunters and target shooters (Vote No. 28, March 2, 2004).

* Kerry co-sponsored current legislation to ban all semi-automatic shotguns and detachable-magazine semi-automatic rifles, a gigantic step toward bringing Australian-style gun control to the U.S. (Signed on as co-sponsor of S. 1431 on Nov. 21, 2003).

* Kerry voted to hold the highly regulated American firearm industry legally responsible for the illegal acts of violent criminals (Vote No. 24, March 2, 2004; Vote No. 25, March 2, 2004).

* Kerry says, "I think you ought to tax all ammunition more, personally, I think you ought to tax guns." (CNN "Late Edition," Nov. 7, 1993).

* Kerry has a 100% rating from gun-control groups, and is called "a hero" by anti-hunting extremists such as PETA.

"Kerry`s numerous anti-gun votes present a red flag for hunters and sportsmen, but this savvy voting bloc will not be fooled by election-year campaign tactics," concluded Cox.

For a full list of John Kerry`s Second Amendment-related votes, please visit <http://www.nrapvf.org/kerry/default.aspx>.

MUST WATCH:

<http://www.nrapvf.org/multimedia/Player.aspx?ID=19> <--- About the U.N.

<http://www.nrapvf.org/multimedia/Player.aspx?ID=15> <--- About Kerry
