Creed3020Dude please do not even start talking about this. Where I live it is a very serious problem there are more cases of it everyday. Toronto Canada is in a crisis over this bug right now and we are also having weather from hell, Ice Storms are making everything one giant skating rink....

I know the feeling. I have an Asian college just down the road from where I work, and I've seen many of them having to wear those protective masks as not to spread it should they have it and are not aware.
