Aircraftkiller Making money isn't the only point of capitalism. Saddam was making money off the Oil for Food scandal yet he was a totalitarian dictator. Does that make pre-Gulf War II Iraq capitalist? NO!

Germany is based on Marxist ideology. All states have to make money in order to survive. The Soviet Union survived by making money - but were they capitalist? NO!

WTF is so hard to grasp about this?

Capitalism is an ECONOMIC policy, not an political one. A totalitarian dictator can have a capitalistic economy.

This is why Pre-WW2 Germany and the USSR had a love-hate relationship. Their Political views were the same, but their economic policy was different. Germany incorporated "good of the state" by way of capitalism, while the USSR did the exact same thing by way of Communism.
