Well, it's better than nothing... It needs a lot more detail, I looked up the weapon on google, and that Starwars gun has much more parts and details than that. Also, it's very low quality, there should be more segments on the trigger guard so it's a little more rounded, and the trigger is also shaped differently, etc.. The two things on the front top of the gun (which look like iron sights) aren't solid with simple holes in them, they're just wire.
