Sir PhoenixxTo think that EA will do something that will cost millions just because a few people on a petition want it is just rediculous.

First, how do you know it was the petition itself that got them to release the dll, did they specifically say that it was the petition that got them to release it? If it was, then there is a huge difference between asking them to release the source to a dll and asking them to develop a game (mainly the millions of dollars it will take to develop and publish it).

Well the petiton it to let them know there is a fan base. We should really goto the other Cnc sites and ask them to post it in their news or something. if anything else, at the very least, it might just make them say "Ok there is some interest in this idea."

They said "No we will not release the source." Sent the petiton, and a little bit later it was released. Thats all i know.
