Alright hear me out boys and girls- the internet on my main computer is definately not working. I downloaded a buddy icon that contained a virus or some contained software that caused my internet to stop being functional. I have tried Adaware, AVGuard, and soon I am going to install spybot S&D on it from my laptop. I think I have located the problem location though- ProgramFiles/Toolbar. Here is something weird- when I go to Windows Task Manager I try to shut down the executable (TBPS.exe and Wintaskad.exe) it removes them from active programs and then replaces them. Adaware has picked up the TBPS spyware, but it cannot delete it and gives an error message.

I'm on XP Home, a year and a half old machine. The connection works on my laptop, using the same network cord, and the other two machines work, also.

Any help is appreciated.
