Well...First of all what you have to understand is that no matter how many public games you play. That doesn't make you any better at all. That just means that you know the right spots to camp and make points (I don't know if that's your case, if it's not then good for you).

I'm not going to get in any side here even though Clanwars is where i am most active on. I have played Clanwars against and with the best warriors that this game has seen. I don't feel like mentioning anyone, but For those that don't know me take my word that I have been here for years and when I started playing this game I was just p0intwh0ring the WOL ladder and I thought the same of Clanwars, that they were easy and pointless, but after my first month playing clanwars. I realized that It is 1000% harder than I thought. It's not the same thing playing on a 40 players server with 5-6 mixed good people that are good than playing a 3vs3 or more on a clanwar.

It's just not the same thing because when you play a clanwar. Most of the times you are playing with people with as good or better skills than you, Organized game and most important on Teamspeak. If you just don't believe me Cowsmisfit, you can go ahead and ask Boink or kil4fun which are the ones that I have played Clanwars against when the real [DOM] was around which I was once part of. (irelevant, but I just thought it would be worth mentioning).

Clanwars is the only thing that I have fun with anymore on this game. If you are getting bored of this game you should try it too. It is a lot of fun and you get a lot more skills faster than just playing Public Servers. I know you were part of [FoD] with boink and I saw you guys clanning sometimes, but I don't know really know how many games did you guys win or lost, but looks like you guys didn't face the best clans at that time or else you would have seen the Skill level of the top clans from Clanwars, Which I have always been a part of as well.

I already know that this won't make you change your mind, but just think about it and It will make some sense.

BTW if you think I am just another newbie bashing on your "Forum Veterans" just go ahead and ask the most veteran renegade player you know...they would know who I am. IE: The creators of this forum or someone as old player as them.
